airport4

with my canon + 300mm lens I went to airport on CNY day (at least airport is open for sure, but very quiet even there, and most restaurants there were closed) and took some paparazzi photos through glass windows, sometimes several layers, so lightting is very poor

ha

had to go to East Coast Park to take photos of planes landing, clearer because there are no windows in between, but the bright sky tends to make the camera set low exposure so I still had to use software to enhance light; first SIA plane gradually descend:

these have been reduced; now details of parts:

silk air and another plane descending over trees:

some parts of the plane as it flew overhead

a jetstar with painted belly; more details
